County fair seeking aid of law firm

County Fair Association directors will seek recommendation of a law firm in order to pursue possible recourses to huge revenue losses from this year's annual fair.

Directors learned Tuesday night that John Cantwell, who represented the association during picketing at the fair, would be unable to continue representation.

Director Richard McCarthy was to contact Richard Moore of the law firm of Moore, Sizoo and Cantwell to discuss recommendation of another attorney.

After referral, the Fair Association's legal committee will meet to discuss possible courses of action. The panel is composed of George Jacopetti, chairman, William Gale, Tom Kitayama, Joe Perez, Joe Schenone and McCarthy.

The County Fair, because no racing was held and Service Employees International Union members picketed at all gates, was off 50 per cent (from 1975) in paid admissions, from 321,689 to 157,896.

Overall attendance dropped 48.8 per cent. Total income, including grounds parking, dropped from $474,566 to $263,444— or 44 per cent.

In 1975, total income from grounds, grandstand, reserved and box seats, racing programs and parking amounted to $667,116. Total loss in revenue, as figured by Everett Nevin, amounted to $403,072.

As a consequence, the 1977 budget is a deficit ledger.

Directors learned Tuesday there is little chance the state would come to the assistance of the local fair and allot more than the stipulated $65,000 for operations.

Secretary - manager Lee Hall, auditor Ken Robertson and a contingent of Fair directors will travel to Sacramento Friday for a budget meeting with the Division of Fairs and Expositions.

In other business, directors were told work on the new pari - mutuel building at the south end of the grandstands (closest to the cafeteria) would begin by November. Fourteen more sellers windows and five more cashier windows are to be built.

Jack Bras is currently completing plans for the structure. Work will be done by Fair Association employees.

Directors approved an increase in hourly charges for Security Eye Patrol employees from $3.75 to $4.25 effective Monday.

The Tennis Faire operation at the Fairgrounds drew 733 for an 18-day period in August.

Hall, assistant manager Peter Bailey and directors Al Bonne and John Pleich will attend the Western Fairs Association area meeting at the San Mateo Fairgrounds Friday, Oct. 22. A report on vocational education exhibits at fairs is slated.

Bonne reported on his visit to the Oklahoma State Fair and Hall on the directors' visit to the Fresno fair.

A personnel committee meeting has been scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 2, a joint entertainment - publicity committee session for Oct. 26 and the exhibit committee gathering for Thursday, Nov. 4.

Classic weekend

Jill Gahl of Dublin is off for a Sunday afternoon of old-fashioned fun and invites the community to join her in the celebration Oct. 17 as the Dublin Historical Preservation Association raises funds for a future heritage center. Order of the afternoon from noon to 5 p.m. will be wine and cheese - tasting, arts and crafts demonstrations, an exhibit of antique cars, refreshments and games for the children. Donation of $2 for adults (children are free) will help in restoration of the Old Murray School.

School officials debate teachers' pact bargaining

PLEASANTON — Some semblance of a previous communications gap was gulfed here Wednesday evening when Pleasanton Joint School District Supt. Bruce Newlin and Pleasanton Teachers Unit president Tom Zach engaged in a 75 minute discussion and debate on collective bargaining and contract issues.

The entire session was video taped by district media center coordinator Robert Scruggs at the center. The tape will be available to all community groups and teachers free of charge starting this morning.

Those wishing to view the video tape should contact Scruggs at the district media center, 846-4611.

Newlin and Zach each discoursed for five minutes on four topics, SB 160, collective bargaining; binding arbitration; agency shop, and employe compensation.

After each had spoken five minutes on the topic, newsmen from three valley newspapers and an Oakland paper asked questions of either Zach or Newlin or both.

No other persons, save photographers and those operating the video tape, were permitted to view the discussion.

Newlin appeared better prepared to voice opinions and discuss issues.

Most of what was said during the taping has been expressed repeatedly during past months.

However, Newlin summed up by suggesting some accord had been reached purely on the strength of the face-to-face discussion.

Pleasanton teachers, as represented by the Amador Valley Teachers Association, of which is Zach is president, are still apart from the administration counsel on salary, binding arbitration of grievances and agency shop.

Zach said teachers had previously agreed to drop the agency shop demand in hopes the Pleasanton school board and counsel Keith Breon would make a counter move towards settlement of the 1976-77 contract.

"SB 160 clearly provides for it," said Zach, in reference to agency shop. "Our teachers believe it only fair that we have it. Agency shop does not force anyone to join. It asks that they give their fair share."

In response, Newlin said he could not agree with that interpretation of the SB 160 section. "The major issue is whether an employe should be required to pay a fee to an organization that is supported by the taxpayers." Newlin added, "Tom said he would like to see the local teachers' unit collect fees under a hold harmless agreement. But I'de like to see a CTA lawyer try to defend that position in court."

Asked to expand on collection of teacher unit fees via a hold harmless agreement, Zach said someone who wouldn't pay for services afforded by the unit might be taken to small claims court.

A significant difference of opinion surfaced again on the question of binding arbitration on grievances.

"We currently do not have a contract with teachers," Newlin opened, "but once we do it will be binding by the EERB and a court of law. But there is a personal services contract that we do have with teachers.

Newlin said that if an employe's grievances were not settled at one of three initial levels of mediation, a direct appeal could be made to the board of trustees.

Newlin down played the role of an arbitrator, noting that such persons do not have to live with their decisions. He contended that the present system "appears to be working well."

He warned, however, that unless boards and teacher reps could better resolve their differences, the American Arbitration Association "will become the most powerful ruling body, far surpassing a board of trustees."

Zach expressed some disenchantment with the administration counsel, claiming that Breon is not only counsel for a half-dozen or more school boards in the East Bay but a school board member himself in Portola Valley (near Stanford University).

Later, Zach was asked if Pleasanton teachers would give up salary increases for binding arbitration and agency shop. Zach answered with a resounding "no".

Zoning revamped on Vineyard Ave.

PLEASANTON — The city council lowered the general plan density on 4.8 acres of vacant land on Vineyard Avenue near Mavis Drive Monday night.

The vote was 3-2 on the general plan amendment with Mayor Robert Philcox, Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire and Councilman William Herlihy in favor of the change and Councilmen Frank Brandes and Ken Mercer opposed.

The general plan amendment set the groundwork to rezone the property from apartment densities to duplex and single family home densities.

The parcel now joins 14 other parcels along Vineyared Avenue, all currently zoned for multiple development, in the city council hopper. The council will consider reducing the zoning on all of them with an eye to taking the pressure off Vineyard Avenue traffic problems.

Attorney Jack Corley argued that the council is too late to solve the Vineyard Avenue traffic problems, especially by reducing the density on the 4.8 acres. The problem was created by nearby property owners, including many of the single family homes in Vintage Hills, said Corley. Why punish the owner of the 4.8 acres for paying taxes for many years on multiple property when he actually helped the city by not adding more development, asked Corley.

Councilman Ken Mercer voted against the general plan amendment because he felt the future Del Valle Parkway on the opposite bank of the Arroyo Del Valle will relieve future traffic congestion on Vineyard Avenue.

He also felt it was unfair to the property owner to take away the multiple zoning on which he paid taxes for many years.

Brandes voted "no" because he felt he did not have enough information on the whole area affected by the proposed downzonings.

Law winning, robbers are losing

PLEASANTON — Things have calmed down on Main Street and the police department's actions are responsible, Chamber of Commerce Manager Chan Henderson has told Director of Public Safety Walt McCloud.

The police had a "quick and efficient reaction" to the complaints about vandalism, litter and harrassment resulting from youths cruising Main Street, said Hendrerson.

The downtown merchants voiced their concerns at a meeting in the City Council Chambers September 20 where McCloud and Acting Police Chief Ron Nelson were in attendance.

Henderson expressed hope that the "positive results of the recent days can be continued".

The Chamber plans to meet with students soon and get input from them about the problem, said Henderson. He will keep the police informed about the progress of those talks.

Doubt over Komandorski detectors

PLEASANTON — Curiosity about the possible radiation danger from certain kinds of smoke detectors has caused the city council to postpone acquisition of the devices for Komandorski Village public housing for at least a couple of weeks.

Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire raised the concern about the smoke detectors. She said that investigations by Ralph Nader's consumer advocate researchers have revealed unsafe levels of radioactivity in the devices.

LeClaire didn't know the scientific details about radiation levels in the devices, but felt that the fire department should see if it can acquire another kind of smoke detector which does not use radioactive materials.

The city council also wants reports on the cost of the two kinds of smoke detectors.

Councilman Frank Brandes voted against the motion to learn more about the smoke detectors. He told The Times yesterday that he doubted manufacturers of smoke detectors would put anything harmful on the market.

Morality could cost his job

SAN RAMON — Richard Collins' presidential campaign has finally attracted national attention — but it may cost him his job.

The attention is coming from the U.S. General Counsel's Office and the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

The commission is investigating possible violations of the Hatch Act, which prohibits federal employes from participating in partisan politics. Collins is employed by the U.S. Postal Service at the San Ramon Post Office.

"They think they have me running scared...I can't chicken out now, I have to go all the way," Collins says. "This is what I counted on all along."

Collins, who is running for President of the United States on a platfoem calling for a return to moralityhas long accused the Postal Service of covering up for him, refusing to take action against him.

He claims he is guilty of three federal offenses — violation of the Hatch Act, using government property for personal use (an office copier), and neglecting to file his election papers with the Federal Elections Commission.

But, he has done it all, he says, to draw attention to President Gerald R. Ford's offenses. Ford, Collins claims, is running for office, even though he is a federal employee, and is using government property to further his campaign.

"If they do anything to me, then they have to do it to Ford," he says.

Richard Collins

Charles Rice, assistant chief of the Civil Service Commission's investigative division in San Francisco, says Collins is definitely under investigation. Rice's office has sent an investigator into San Ramon to talk to citizens about Collins' campaign.

A report will be sent to Washington, D.C., within a month, and the final determination will come from the General Counsel's office.

Collins' isn't too worried, even though he knows the investigation could mean the end of his job.

"It puts me in jeopardy, but it's the kind of jeopardy you have to push all the way. You either win or lose everything," he says.

Collins sees an unfair contradiction — that the President is allowed to run for office and use governmental property to aid his campaign, and he is not.

On those grounds, Collins feels he can force an impeachment.

He has written to his congressman and the attorney general asking them to start proceedings against the President.

"If this thing does break nationally, it's going to be front page all the way," Collins says.

"This will put my name on everyone's tongue for the last two weeks" of the campaign. This might be the edge that will make him a winner as a write-in candidate.

Trivia Bowl set tonight

PLEASATON —The "First Annual Trivia Bowl" will be held in the banquet room of Hap's Restaurant at 7:30 tonight.

Teams from the Foothill Boosters, Pleasanton Lions, The Times and local a school administrators will participate.

Costly assault on K-2

When the plane arrived to take the exhausted mountaineers out of Pakistan, there were cheers in five languages.

Besides the eight Americans who had tried to conquer K2 at 28,700 feet, the second highest mountain in the world there were two Italians who had climbed a nearby peak, and some Polish women who had scaled 26,000 - foot Gasherbrum III, and two Austrians who had raced up Hidden Peak without even taking oxygen.

K2, the jagged granite pyramid no one has yet scaled, is in Pakistan's remote Karakoram range 1,000 miles northwest of the famous Himalaya range where Mt. Everest is located.

The peak is almost on the Chinese border and near the Afghanistan frontier. For political reasons, visiting mountain climbers were barred from the area until 1974. Now, the race is on between expeditions from various countries to see whose flag will be first planted on top of K2.

Valley woman spurs formation of first singles ski group

She knocked the dust off the blue denim case, unzipped it and slid out the bright red - and - white Austrian skis.

"Look at those nicks!" she frowned. Then, inspecting the shiny aluminum poles:

"Tell you the truth, I can't wait to use these!"

Billie, a 26 - year - old Livermore resident, is anticipating the season by forming the Valley's first singles ski club. "I've been going to the In - Skiers club in San Mateo for the past three years," she says. "But I'm bored. And that long drive!"

The club she and a few friends plan to set up will be a branch of the Bay Area Council of the Far West Ski Association.

It will be patterned after the six other singles ski clubs in the Bay Area, from Walnut Creek (where membership is often closed because the club is usually at its limit of 114 members) to San Jose to Marin County.

Which means an unceasing round of parties, meetings, dances, competitions and ski trips for unmarried adults in the Livermore, Dublin, Pleasanton and San Ramon area.

"You don't have to be athletic to join," Billie promises. "You don't even have to ski. And the club goes all year round.

"In summer we meet twice a month. There's volleyball, barbecues, tennis, golf, swim races and picnics on Angel Islands."

Dues are $25 a year, but you don't have to be a member to go to the meetings or even on the ski trips (although there's a $5 guest fee for non - members on trips.)

Club ski trips are a good deal — bus transportation, lift tickets and two nights' lodging for about $50. First trip of the year is already planned for Mt. Rose, near Tahoe's north shore, the second weekend of December.

"It's one of the highest altitude slopes, so it's likely to have snow early in the season," Billie explains with the air of one who has visited all of the Sierra ski resorts.

Local club members will also be offered one or two out - of - state trips. In between there will be dances, parties and other activities.

For more of the tempting details, call Billie at 443 - 5033.

First gathering of prospective club members will be Tuesday, Nov. 9, 8 p.m. at The Refectory in Dublin. At that meeting, Billie will hand out copies of the Singles League by - laws (minimum age for membership, 21; no maximum age) and talk about the goals of the club.

Election of board members and naming the club will take place about two weeks later.

And before long, local ski bums will be breathing the pure clear air as they slalom through the powder...

Skilled climber's tale

"It's almost a political thing," observed Galen Rowell to some 200 outdoors enthusiasts who attended his slide show Tuesday night in Livermore's Rec Center.

The short, powerfully built young mountaineer lives in Albany and is nationally known for his sensitive nature photographs as well as his climbing exploits. His Sierra Club book on the 1975 K2 expedition, "In the Throne Room of the Mountain Gods," is available at Livermore's Sunrise Mountaineering shop.

It was Sunrise Mountaineering who sponsored Rowell, and sold tickets at $1.50 each to cover the $150 fee they paid him.

Rowell and the seven other expedition members, all residents of the Pacific Northwest, ended their privately funded trek with a $30,000 debt — and a determination to go back again in 1978 for another try.

The eight climbers brought in 12 tons of equipment, to be hauled 110 miles over mountains and across glaciers, along treacherous mountain trails and up sheer walls of rock.

It took 600 porters to carry the boxes to the expedition's base camp at 17,000 feet.

But one porter strike followed another, until 200 men were going back and forth three times to carry the boxes originally allocated to 600.

Porter trouble slowed the expedition down so badly that a trek which should have taken a few weeks turned into months instead. Food supplies dwindled. The Americans had to bribe the Pakistanis with lengths of yellow and red nylon rope.

"We found out this was the most valuable thing we had, to them," Rowell reported.

"They weave their own rope out of goat's hairs. A 15 - foot piece of rope represents a week's work to them."

Somehow, Rowell always found time to take dazzling pictures. A companion standing alone in a white world, scaling a steep field of ice.

Glittering icicles framing a cloud - furred peak. Moonlight pouring over a snowy mountain panorama.

They were 600 feet from the first peak — which, they hoped, was the only obstacle between them and the base of K2 — when Rowell suddenly felt weak and feverish.

He descended to base camp and for the next week battled with pneumonia.

Meanwhile, the rest of the team made it to the crest. They discovered, to their horror, that a whole row of similar hard - to - climb small peaks stood between them and the base of K2.

They had run out of time. Their supplies were too low to be stretched over the additional weeks it would take to reach K2.

And, once on the giant mountain, there was no telling how long it would take to scale it.

So, the team cached their oxygen tanks somewhere in the crevices, for future use and turned back.

"We left with kind of a feeling of bitterness," Rowell told his Livermore audience.

"We really suffered a lot. It was a long time before we lost the rough edges of our memories.

"Finally, we began to forget the social problems and remember the allure of the peaks.

"The wildlife, the granite, the bright blue sky. Going to a high, cold, faraway place."

State conciliator holds initial Amador session

Negotiators for the Amador Valley Joint High School District administration and the teachers unit huddled with a state conciliator Tuesday afternoon in the first attempt at mediation of contract differences.

Amador Valley Second Educators Association (AVSEA) president Jim Eaton said the next session would be held Friday, Oct. 22.

Yesterday's meeting with mediator Michael West lasted 2½ hours and was concerned primarily with familiarizing West with the situation.

Jim Carroll of AVSEA said the Amador district board would provide the teacher representatives with documents on the 19th detailing events to date.

Under present Educational Employment Relations Board (EERB) procedures, a mediator must work with both sides a minimum of 15 calendar days in hopes of a settlement. If no settlement is affected, the issues are submitted to fact-finding.

AN OPEN LETTER TO PARENTS & TAXPAYERS OF AMADOR VALLEY HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT

TEACHERS WANT TO TEACH

Dear Friends:

At Amador, Dublin and Foothill high schools are professional educators who want to devote their time and attention to their chosen careers of teaching the community's teenagers.

What's standing in the way?

For six months, these teachers have been plagued with uncertainties concerning their job situations: When do they teach? (We have no official calendar for the academic year now underway.) What are their rights and responsibilities: (No policies are in force because no contract is signed, and new legislation makes possible some overdue changes.) What will they be paid? (Without warning, district trustees froze our salaries at the 1975-76 schedule.)

After half a year of getting nowhere at the negotiating table, teachers represented by the Amador Valley Secondary Educators' Association went directly to the school board to express their understandable concern at the deadlock. When this failed to evoke any meaningful response, frustrated teachers went on a minimum day schedule to dramatize their plight. To avoid chaos in the classrooms, teachers returned to a full schedule after one minimum day, and declared a state of impasse, requesting that a neutral conciliator from the Education Employment Relations Board come take a look at the situation.

Why all the fuss?

A major stumbling block in negotiations is the issue of BINDING ARBITRATION OF GRIEVANCES. Put simply, binding arbitration means that the teacher-school board contract becomes enforceable by an outside neutral arbitrator if and when the two parties cannot come to an agreement. Here are some facts of binding arbitration of which you should be aware:

- It makes a contract a two-way agreement, instead of a document only enforceably by the school board side.
- It in no way usurps the power of the elected school board members, as AVSEA negotiators have specified, in writing, that an outside arbitrator would be unable to modify or delete any of the board's existing policies.
- It is a right granted to teachers under a new law (SB 160, section 3548.5) which went into effect July 1, 1976. (Local districts with binding arbitration: Castro Valley, Martinez).
- It involves shared costs by teachers, not new or increased tax revenues.

If you share our concern for quality education in the valley, we suggest that it's time you started asking your elected trustees, "Why are you so afraid of signing a contract which you might be held to?" In other words, why the great opposition to binding arbitration?

You deserve an answer. Call or write your school district: P.O. Box 130, Pleasanton, CA 94566, (462-5500).

Let's allow teachers to focus their attention where it should be, on teaching.

Respectfully yours,

AMADOR VALLEY SECONDARY EDUCATORS ASSOCIATION

Alleged shoplifters arrested; suspected PCP found

PLEASANTON — A man and woman were arrested outside the Safeway store on Santa Rita Road on suspicion of shoplifting Monday, and a container of suspected PCP was confiscated from the woman's handbag during booking, police reported.

Two security guards inside the store told police that they noticed the couple near the canned hams section before 1 p.m. Monday. As they watched, the man put two hams into the woman's handbag, and then slid at least one salami into his pants, police said.

The guards waited until the pair left the store and then announced they were under arrest.

Arrested were David Lynn Creighton, 26, and Susan Kay Pedigo, 20, both of Hayward. Creighton was booked on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and theft. Pedigo was booked on suspicion of theft and possession of a controlled substance.

Burglars arrested in progress — several cases cleared

LIVERMORE — A Hemlock Court resident who waited for his house to be burglarized Monday morning caught two youths in the act, which led police to four other suspects involved in at least seven recent burglaries.

According to reports, Stephen Eric Miller heard from a friend that two youths had planned to burglarize his house. Miller heard his phone ring about 50 times Monday morning around 9 a.m., but didn't answer, thinking it was a check to see if he was home.

A short time later, Miller heard a knocking at his door which he again ignored. His garage door opened a few minutes later, and when he walked into the hallway, he met two youths coming in.

A brief struggle ensued while Miller attempted to phone police. Officers said the struggle was recorded on police department lines, which are set up to record calls.

Following an investigation, officers arrested three more juveniles and would have arrested another except for "manpower restrictions," police reported. Investigators say that the arrests closed at least seven recent residential burglary cases, and may affect three other crimes committed in the city recently.

One of the youths arrested was reported to be the tipster who told Miller that his house was going to be burglarized.

The investigation will continue.

Man arrested for stealing $5 from 10-year-old boy

PLEASANTON — An 18-year-old San Leandro man has been arrested and charged with grand theft after witnesses saw him allegedly take a $5 bill from a 10-year-old boy.

Police said that two suspects contacted police to report the theft in front of the Amador Shopping Center Tuesday afternoon. The witnesses led officer Bill Coble to Valley Avenue near Crestline and identified a pedestrian as the thief.

The man, identified as Michael Anthony Barbosa, 18, told police he noticed the bill sitting next to the boy at a bus stop on Santa Rita Road and picked it up to show him a trick. The bus approached and Barbosa said he ran to catch it, remembered the money wasn't his and threw it back on the ground near the youth.

A witness who reportedly saw Barbosa take the money from the boy identified him in a line-up as the thief, police said.

When Barbosa was booked at Santa Rita Jail, a folded $5 bill was confiscated from him. He was booked on suspicion of armed robbery, but was later charged with grand theft by the district attorney.

Three Dublin men arrested in theft case

PLEASANTON — Three Dublin men were arrested after they were spotted running from a truck carrying a box of bottled water which they apparently thought was a case of wine, police said.

According to reports, a Saginaw Place resident saw three men running from his truck about 11:30 p.m. Monday, one carrying a box labelled as wine. He dropped the box when the resident yelled for them to halt. The three suspects were observed entering a West Las Positas home.

Police contacted a woman there who let them in. A man inside was identified as one of the suspects, and then admitted his part in the theft, officers reported.

Arrested on suspicion of theft were Mark Wayne Pooley, 18, of 7687 Canterbury Lane, John Patrick Mullins, 18, of 7684 Canterbury Lane, and Christopher Brian Maple, 18, of 8660 San Ramon Road, all of Dublin.

They were released on notices to appear in court.

Man arrested on suspicion of possessing pot, weapon

LIVERMORE — A 20-year-old Norma Way resident was arrested after police recovered a small quantity of marijuana and a Nun Chaku, considered a deadly weapon, from his car late Sunday.

Officer Charles Bell made a routine traffic stop on a Toyota pick-up at Hillcrest and East streets Sunday night when he noticed the truck's left rear taillight was out. The driver got out, and Bell reported noticing immediately the smell of burnt marijuana.

The man gave permission for a search of his truck, and Bell found the Nun Chaku under the driver's seat. It is described as two pieces of wood tied with a six-inch length of rope, and can be swung to inflict bodily injury.

Officers also found two handrolled cigarettes, pipe, three butts and a "roach clip" in the car.

Booked on suspicion of felony possession of a deadly weapon was Carlos Benito Lucero, 20, of 5157 Norma Ave., apt. 237. He was being held on $5,000 bail, police reported.

Tape player taken from car on Mines Road

LIVERMORE — Burglars smashed a window to Linda Jane Garland's car and took an 8-track tape player and 24 tapes, police reported.

Garland, of Castro Valley, said she was driving home from the Intel Co. parking lot on Mines Road when she felt a breeze. Looking down, she noticed her tape player was missing and the quarter panel window to her vehicle broken.

Missing items include an Automatic Radio brand 8-track tape player and 24 tapes with a total value of $228. The car was parked in the lot under closed circuit television surveillance, she told police.

There are no suspects.

Gary Perry

Gary Perry, 29, a native of New York and Pleasanton resident, died Sunday in a motorcycle accident in Missouri.

He is survived by his wife, Linda, daughter Nicole and son Craig, all of Pleasanton, and Jeffrey Nishiyama. He also leaves his parents Mr. and Mrs. Roland Perry and sister Gerry Perry, all of New York.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m., Thursday, at the Livermore Mortuary Chapel, 3070 East Ave., followed by burial in Memory Gardens Cemetery.

Clarissa Robertson

Clarissa Moore Hall Beatty Robertson, a native of Kansas, died Thursday, Oct. 7, in a local hospital just two days before her 94th birthday.

She treked the Oregon Trail in the 1890s via covered wagon, walking most of the distance.

She married Carl Eric Beatty in 1903 and was widowed in 1907. Their daughter Josephine later died. She went on to raise Caroline Clarissa Alexander of Livermore and Carl Joseph Bruzas of Washington.

She later married Floyd Robertson and bore two sons, one of whom died in infancy. She is survived by son Armand Robertson of Oregon, cousin Vera Boeck and six great - grandchildren in addition to Caroline Alexander.

A descendant of American revolutionaries Jesse and Matthew Taylor, she was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Funeral services and burial were held last Friday at Memory Gardens Cemetery in Livermore with the family in attendance.

Contributions in her memory may be made either to the Livermore Heritage Guild, P.O. Box 961, or to the American Heart Association.

First sale ceremony

Let Zone pick up tab

PLEASANTON — Zone 7 should pay the entire cost of digging the wells to monitor the city's ground water quality, the city council decided on a 4-1 vote Monday night.

The council will write a letter to the Zone 7 board asking that agency to pick up the total cost for drilling the 12 wells.

Vice - mayor Joyce LeClaire disagreed with the council's action. She noted that the city is under obligation from the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board to monitor its underground water. Zone 7 by agreement with the city has taken charge of the monitoring and it's fair that the city pay the more than $5,000 amount which would be its half of the cost, she said.

"I see it as a cooperative effort which benefits all. The city should be aware of the quality of its underground water and it should share in the costs," said LeClaire.

Assistant City Manager Alan Campbell said that there might not be a requirement for the city to monitor the ground water if it were not for the disposal of treated effluent from the city's sewage treatment plant. Salts from the effluent find their way into the ground water basin. The city has a responsibility to pay part of the cost, said Campbell.

Councilman William Herlihy made the suggestion to ask Zone 7 to pay all the monitoring costs. He felt that Zone 7's role as the valley's water agency put the responsibility on it to do all of the work and py for all of the costs associated with the monitoring program.

Everybody's week

PLEASANTON — In a flurry of "whereases", Mayor Robert Philcox declared honorary days and weeks in the city Monday night.

Tomorrow will be U.S. Marine Band Day in honor of the band's appearance at the Alameda County Fairgrounds amphitheatre. The band will give performances at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Tickets are $4 for adults and $2.50 for those under 18 for the matinee and $6.50 for everyone at the evening performance.

The mayor also proclaimed the week of November 15 as Alcohol Action Week in an effort to acquaint more persons with the effects of alcholism.

The Pleasanton Women's Club also will take the spotlight November 8 to 13 as part of Pleasanton Women's Week.

Coupon special big hit

DUBLIN — Scott MacIntosh, manager of Dublin Burger Pit, 8000 Amador Valley Blvd. reports that the October special on the Giant Steerburger is going over bigger than any promotion in recent times at the popular restaurant.

The combo sandwich consists of approximately one half pound of beef served on a French bun, a choice of soup or salad bars and a large order of French fries. For the month of October this goes for only $1.99 when accompanied with a Valley Times Burger Pit coupon. (See this page) This is a saving of 70 cents over the usual price.

The Dublin Burger Pit is open seven days a week, 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Military women

Women are now eligible for 93 per cent of all military job classifications and the combined services plan on having 88,000 women in uniform by 1977. The largest representation is in the women's Army Corps with, at the end of 1975, 1,466 officers and 35,656 enlisted women. The Coast Guard had the fewest women, 32 officers and 420 enlisted women.

Marchands

PLEASANTON — Everyone knows Marchands for dinner — a leisure, candlelite affair, that begins with a fresh fruit appetizer and concludes six courses later with desert choice of chocolate mousse or banana chantilly, followed by after-dinner wines.

Now this soothing European atmosphere can be enjoyed for lunch. Open Monday thru Friday, from 11:30 to 2:30 pm. Reservations are taken for a party of six or more. Surrounded by hanging plants, fresh flowers and antiques you can relax and dine on favorites like ground sirloin on French bread, jack cheese, ortega chili topped with rellenos sauce and smothered with cheeses, chopped onions, green peppers, tomato bits and a dab of spirited guacamole or Crab Supreme, a toasted English muffin with delicious chunks of king crab, topped with a lightly sherried mornay sauce and avocado wedges, or any one of their other twenty - four scrumptious salads, cold or hot sandwiches, omiettes or entrees. A special dieter's or light lunch feature is their delicious homemade soup du jour, salad, French bread and wine. Prices range from $2.25 to $4.25 — modest, indeed, considering the excellent meals and pleased, happy face you leave with. A luncheon well - recommended for the business person with limited time or the shopper who yearns to relax and chat with friends.

Marchands also welcomes banquets, with advanced reservations can serve up to 50 or 60 people.

Well-deserved congratulations to Bob Reynolds, the chef formerly of Quail Court and Dan McGrews, Bobby Reynols and Marcia Moroles, the delightful hostesses, and Linda Jensen, Ina Smith and Maria Welch, your dining attendants.

Parents learn self-worth and children benefit

lifestyle

By LILLY AULT

"We live in a put-down society, that's why so many grown-ups feel insecure within themselves," states Ruth Gasten, early childhood education instructor and co-leader of self-image workshops.

"So many adults can't give themselves credit for their worth," she continued. "They have lived with so much negativity during their life that they grow up having the feeling of being worthless people."

When adults grow up with this "negativeness" imbedded in them and if it is not corrected somewhere along the line, these patterns get passed on from generation to generation. "It is a vicious cycle," states the young lady who also had to learn how to think positive.

Because communications within her own relationships with family and friends was so important to her and she saw that this was, also important to others, Ruth became very involved in promoting communications.

"I work with parents," she remarked, "mainly mothers of children zero to five years old. In the first five years of his life, the child establishes attitudes and basic patterns of behavior which will be with him throughout his life. My primary goal for the parents of young children is to help them to find ways to raise their children to have a good self-image."

It is Ruth's belief that "communication with a child happens from the day he or she is born. With an infant you communicate by talking cuddling, smiling, stroking and cooing at him," she explains.

A person's communication and the way the individual establishes relationship with a child helps develop the child's basic sense of trust about the world.

For the last three years, the holder of a B.S. degree has been working with adults in helping them to change their self-image. "Mothers have found," she says, "after attending classes to improve their feelings toward themselves that it helps them with their children, husband and their communications with others. A person has to to be honest and answer questions concerning himself before he will be able to relate well with others," asserts the mother of two.

In her classes, she teaches the tools that are needed toward having good communications. "In order to develop a good self-image and good psychological health," says Ruth, "children need to be allowed to express feelings, even those feelings we were taught to believe are negative such as anger, fear, frustration and jealousy. As children, adults were not allowed to express those feelings and have difficulty allowing children to express them."

Because of the lack of being able to express feelings, Ruth states that "adults have a strong guilt complex if they now show any signs of anger, etc in expressing their feelings.

"Men are especially bad in this area," she states, "as they have been more supressed in being allowed to show feelings. It was not masculine to cry or gentlemanly to show anger, are some of the statments which led many men into having a very deeply implanted inferiority complexes. They don't have a good self-image," she states.

Parents need to develop reflective listening skills with their young children so they can accept children's feelings and also help them to identify their feelings, according to Ruth.

Another communication technique offered by this well versed individual is "saying things in a positive way. State, 'Use two hands when you climb' instead of, 'Careful, you'll fall' when talking with a child."

Adults should take the attitude that they "deserve to take good care of themselves and deserve to have some pleasures in life.

"Most adults deep down when they look within themselves will discover they feel they aren't worthy of having things in life. A sense of power — a good image of one self — needs to be developed by adults so they can be able to take charge of their life."

So many people basically do not like themselves. "This comes about," states Ruth, "by always looking at other persons and comparing oneself to only the good qualities of that individual and it is usually a quality the one doing the comparing does not possess," she says.

Everyone has some good and poor qualities within them. Persons have to learn to develop their good qualities, give themselves credit for those rather than always looking for greater qualities existing in others.

Because so many women felt they benefited from Ruth's classes, they requested workshops whereby husbands or friends could take part in the discussions.

Following this request, Ruth will be taking part in offering classes on Nov. 3, 10, 17 and 24 to couples who would like to learn communication tools for enhancing their communications with each other. Fee will be $25 per couple. Further information can be obtained from Ruth by calling 447-8487.

Ruth, who became involved with classes through being the first president (three years) of CAPE, a nationally recognized Head Start program and by attending "thousands of workshops and classes" also will be taking part in the "Family Communication" program scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Sonoma School auditorium, 543 Sonoma Ave., Livermore.

Speakers at the event, Bob Bronzan, dean at Livermore High School, Judy Barbarosh, counselor with Family Service Bureau and Ruth, will discuss communications between parents, teenagers and young children. Assertive and confident communications also will be considered in this free, public event.

Dorris Fagan, training director for Hotline and Confident Parenting Programs, will moderate the discussion.

The symposium has been arranged by the Livermore - Pleasanton Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Ruth Gasten tackles family communication in Oct. 20 program and November workshop.

Indian and Spanish influence

Early mission music is reborn

A rich but little-known part of California's early culture — mission music which blends Medieval, Renaissance and native Indian music — is being brought to life during this bicentennial year courtesy of the California State Parks Foundation.

One in the series of "Early California Mission Music" concerts will be presented at St. Michael's Catholic Church in Livermore Oct. 24 at 3 p.m. Sponsors are the Livermore Cultural Arts Council, the Livermore Bicentennial Organization, and churches of the Livermore - Amador Valley.

Performed by the John Biggs Consort of Santa Barbara, the concert series was researched from original manuscripts. It features sacred music from Spain of the 13th to 17th centuries, songs and dances of the California Indians and later music of the combined cultures.

Accompanying instruments are both contemporary and historic — hurdy-gurdies, wood flutes, recorders, bells.

Two hundred years ago, the mission were more than a place of worship. They were the center of community life in California. The Franciscan padres, in their efforts to bring Christianity and civilization to the Indians, made the missions a place for education, housing, government — and music.

California's Indians already had their own complex musical heritage, and the missionaries seized on this to overcome language barriers and bring beauty and culture to the hardworking mission communities. Almost every account of early Indian life in California includes some mention of singing, chanting or dancing to musical accompaniment. Little wonder that the Indians were charmed and fascinated by the still more complex musical traditions of the European Renaissance.

Father Junipero Serra, founder of the California Missions, has been called the singing evangelist. Father Narciso Duran, who accompanied Serra on his treks through California, was a talented composer, arranger and transcriber.

Due at least in part to heightened interest in U.S. history aroused by the American Revolutionary Bicentennial celebration, the music of the missions is now receiving increased attention. A contribution to the California State Parks Foundation enabled a research project by Sister Mary Dominic Ray, O.P., of the Dominican College at San Rafael. The music she researched was fashioned into concert form by the John Biggs Consort.

In the span of a single two-hour concert, the Consort tells the story of seven centuries of Spanish and Early California history.

The program begins with a processional entry to a traditional song greeting the break of day, called "Alabado," and the nightwatchman's song, or "Canto de Sereno," telling of the time and weather as he jingles his keys while passing through the streets.

Proceeding through the sacred music of the Medieval and Renaissance periods, the concert arrives at the rich style of later European liturgies.

The second half of the program will be addressed to Indian tribal dances and songs, and to music the Indians learned from he padres. Among these is a courting song from the Yosemite valley.

By contrast to the rich European strains, the mission music is tuneful and simple. Much of the mission music performed by the Consort was written by Padre Narciso Duran, including his "Kyrie," "Gloria," "Benedictus" and "Agnus Dei."

The program concludes with another traditional "alabado," praising the Holy Trinity, the Blessed Sacrament, the Virgin Mary, the angels and saints. It was sung by soldier, colonist, neophyte, in church, at home, in the field and on the trail.

The John Biggs Consort specializes in Medieval and Renaissance music, and is devoted to capturing both the authentic sound of early music, and its expressive quality. The Consort has toured nationally since 1967, has appeared at the Ashland and San Diego Shakespeare festivals, and has made an award - winning film, "Discovering the Middle Ages."

Tickets to "Early California Mission Music" will be available at the door or from the Livermore Cultural Arts Council, P.O. Box 489, Livermore 94550 (send check with self-addressed, stamped envelope). General admission is $3.50, children under 16 $2.50, and senior citizens $2.50.

Show offers new insight

Young music students, and adults who simply enjoy music may be rewarded with fresh insight through a unique multi-media presentation on the history of music to be offered Sunday, Oct. 17 at the Livermore High School student union.

The presentation featuring costumed players, live music, slides and narrative will be hosted by the Livermore - Amador Symphony Guild at two showings — one at 1:30 p.m., the other at 3:30 p.m. Tickets at $1.50 per person are available at Proctor's, Curtis School of Music, Victor's Music or Audio Arts in Livermore.

Narrator for the program is Dan Chambers, director of the Junction Avenue School "Blue Notes" jazz band. Keyboard artists who will provide examples of Baroque, Classical, Romantic and Contemporary music are Betty Harris (piano) and Nancy O'Connell (harpsichord. Both will be appropriately costumed.

The presentation relates the development of music to other "signs of the times" such as dress styles, church events, politics and other arts. Emphasis is on major composers — Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Debussy, Stravinsky, Joplin, Bartok.

The presentation was compiled and produced by the Santa Clara branch of the Music Teachers Association of Northern California, and is designed to appeal to appeal to all ages.

inside the arts

Learn to be a survivor! Classes begin Monday

"Economic Survival in the Arts," a ten-week course geared to practicing visual, dramatic and literary artists, will be conducted for Alameda County residents beginning Oct. 18. Location is the Alameda County Public Works Building, 399 Elmhurst St., Hayward.

The course, conducted in conjunction with Art Works '76 under the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act, is designed to increase artists' understanding of administration skills in an art career. Artists learn how to market their abilities, and become employable.

Topics to be covered are portfolio preparation, career options, copyright law, fund - raising, contracts, dealing with youth or older persons. Featured are a series of guest speakers, each a professional in the field of art or business.

The course is free and open to the public, but enrollment is limited. This course is a repeat of a popular series presented ealier this fall. For further information call the Alameda County Neighborhood Arts Program at 653-7880.

Hours are 9 a.m. to noon each Monday. It should be noted that this course has been relocated from its original classroom on Hayward's Chabot College campus.

Livermore folk music

Kathy Dahlbacka, local voice teacher, vocalist and dulcimer player, will entertain the Livermore Valley Folk Music Club Thursday, Oct. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Special guest will be Mrs. Karma Vullo, president of the Northern California Carnival Club. Admission is free to the public. and refreshments will be served.

Artist of the month

Joan Taylor's animated sketches of wildlife have personalities of their own, visitors to the Livermore Art Association gallery will discover this month. Joan will greet visitors in person Sunday, Oct. 17 from 1 to 3 p.m. at the gallery in the upper level of Livermore's Carnegie Building. Mrs. Taylor studied painting in acrylics and watercolors with valley teachdrs before turning to sketching about a year ago. Her subjects are drawn from photographs (some taken by her husband at the San Diego Zoo) and given an imaginative spark of life. Mrs. Taylor chaired the 1975 Art in the Vineyard show for the Livermore Art Association and is currently the association's Monochrome editor. For gallery information call 447-9927.

PAL offers fall workshop

Reservations for the four-Saturday workshop at $20 per person are available through Dorothy Gordon at 846-5801. Dates are Oct. 23 to Nov. 13.

Spotlight for youth

Young musicians may capture a flash of limelight as a soloist for the Livermore - Amador Symphony in January.

Applications for auditions to select the soloist are now being accepted from junior high and high school students of the valley. All instruments, including piano, will be considered.

A cassette tape of one movement of a concerto must be submitted along with application form and the fee of $2.50 by Oct. 31. The concerto must be from the standard repertoire, with orchestra score obtainable.

Date for personal auditions is Nov. 14 at which time music should be memorized. Finalists will be chosen by the symphony conductor and a judge from outside the valley.

Application forms and information is available from Mrs. Marion Clark, 3892 Madeira Way, Livermore (443-2656), Mrs. Margeurite Platt, 789 E. Angela, Pleasanton (846-4539), or Mrs. Pat Miller, 140 Berwick Pl., San Ramon (828-8966)

By PAT KENNEDY

Front Row

A startling volley of fiery gunshot.

The handsome political prisoner sagged to the ground.

His lover, who had just stuck a knife in the throat of the most powerful man in Rome, threw herself off the roof of the castle.

Curtain. House lights. Ovations.

After a few minutes, we were able to speak again. "Imagine," gasped Barbara.

"People are actually BORED at operas!"

It had been "Tosca" at the San Francisco Opera. A darkly dramatic production, complete with torturer who looked like Kojak, and the San Francisco Boys' Chorus portraying a boys' chorus.

Put a contemporary military uniform on the evil Scarpia — who in the opera is supposed to be a Roman baron — and you've instantly updated it 176 years. The wars, the sex, the unjustified concentration of power in the hands of incompetents — some things never change.

The San Francisco opera season is a fast one, only two and a half months long with Mondays and Thursdays off.

Things opened with a blast in September as a lavish new production of Jules Massenet's "Thais" (financed by Cyril Magnin) captivated opera - goers.

Next night, the audience watched the warrior Valkyrie flying through the air to Wagner's music. Other operas this season include the comical "Barber of Seville," Verdi's "La Forza del Destino" and the popular short operas, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci."

For those jaded by the usual operatic staples, there will also be the lesser - known "Peter Grimes," "Die Frau ohne Schatten," "Angle of Repose" and "The Makropulos Case."

A seat at the opera can be had for as little as $6. That puts you in the rear of the top balcony, where you can still ogle the tenor with a pair of powerful binoculars, and study the interesting phenomenon of seeing his lips move before the sound reaches your ears.

It's a bit far removed from the stage, but accoustically perfect.

Non - opera lovers may never understand the ecstasy of a true opera freak until they get hooked themselves.

Anyone who enjoys ballet or symphony or drama, or just plain violence, is a potential opera maniac. What it takes is getting used to those highly trained voices. The other thing is getting over the language barrier by coming as close as possible to memorizing the libretto.

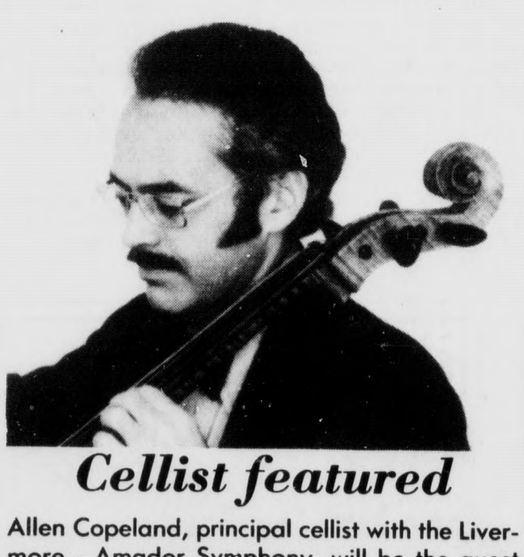
Only in operas do you get an American soldier singing to a Japanese girlfriend in Italian ("Madama Butterfly.") Imagine if you will a toreador spouting French ("Carmen"), much less Scotsmen in tartans having it out it Italian ("Lucia di Lammermoor" and "Macbeth.")

There are some operas done in English. But the vocalizing distorts the language so much that it's hardly understandable.

Local libraries have a fair collection of opera records they'll lend out. Choose your opera; get your ticket; and take the records out of the library. Play them over and over until they start to sound good, following along in the libretto (translation you get with the set of records) while you visualize the action on stage.

That may sound like a lot of work, just to see a bunch of people running around on stage singing and murdering each other.

Take it from an opera freak. It's worth the trouble.



Cellist featured

Allen Copeland, principal cellist with the Livermore - Amador Symphony, will be the guest artist at the third in a series of Eroica Chamber Music concerts Sunday, Oct. 17 at the Women's Club of Walnut Creek, 1224 Lincoln Ave. The concert, including compositions for the piano and cello by Vivaldi, Schumann and Beethoven, is open to the public at $3 per person. Copeland, also an avid sports car racer, will stand in the solo spotlight with the L-A Symphony next spring.

AIRES (March 21-April 19) Your worthy intentions for persons you feel responsible for may be diluted by your methods. Clue them in on what you intend to do.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Advice given you today could be very sound. You'll have to pay attention to use it effectively.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Gains should offset losses today, but there could be much more without careless mistakes that have a way of adding up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to overlook petty affronts today. Don't attach undue importance to something a friend may do without thinking.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't telegraph your intentions today. Premature publicity could cause delays.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're slightly extravagant today, but don't fret too much. Your generosity is directed toward friends who won't forget it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Acquaintances should not mistake kindness in you for weakness today. If your principles are challenged you'll quickly display your muscle.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're prone to act on impulse today, then stew about it later. Dismiss those negative thoughts; what you did was right at the time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The way you handle commercial situations today is quite clever, though you could lose a few points by obliging those who don't deserve it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Although you'll aim high today, conditions could drift you off the mark. Second-best is nothing to be ashamed of.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Minor issues may vex you today, but in situations that really count you'll find yourself in the driver's seat.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Enjoy yourself today, but don't feel you have to spend a bundle. Things that are too costly won't be fun anyway.

The less said about the bidding of today's hand, the better. Not that six hearts isn't a reasonable contract, but there must be as many ways of bidding those North-South cards as there are bridge players.

South went up with dummy's ace of spades, led the 10 of trumps and finessed. West took his king and laid down the queen of spades. South ruffed and went into executive session. There were three ways to play. One was to lead a trump to dummy's seven and take the club finesse. If that worked he would draw trumps, discard one club on a high diamond and repeat the club finesse.

The second line was to cash the ace of diamonds, ruff a diamond, enter dummy with the seven of trumps and, assuming trumps broke 2-2, hope to be able to run the diamonds.

South decided on a third line of play that didn't offer quite as good a chance mathemetically, but gave him an opportunity for lots of thought at the end of the play.

Neither of the first two lines would work. His line did. He simply ran off all his trumps while discarding down to four diamonds and a club in dummy. Then he went after diamonds and since the queen was kind enough to drop he was home with the slam.

AV wins amid controversy

Amador High's girls swim team shook off a belated protest call when Jan Davidson won the same event twice yesterday as the Dons knocked off previously undefeated San Ramon, 79-77, in East Bay Athletic League varsity girls' swimming action in Pleasanton.

San Ramon claimed the Dons' Michelle Benson false started in the 100 freestyle relay event after the start of the race. The Dons went on to take first, second and fifth places but the Wolves insisted they would protest if the final score was in favor of the Dons.

The meet was completed, with Amador rallying from a 73-69 deficit to take the final event, the 400 freestyle relay. Davidson, Morton, Kathy Cohan and Katie Fleischer led the Dons to a lopsided win with a time of 3:37.7.

The Wolves kept true to their promise, and when the final score read the Dons as 79-77 winners, the fun had just begun.

After an absurd 30 - minute delay where coaches and timekeepers discussed the situation thoroughly, judge Chuck Volonte decided to run the race over, even though his call was one of judgement. In swimming, as in most sports, judgement calls cannot be protested.

Davidson put an end to the confusing situation when she bettered her previous winning time in the event by nearly four seconds. Her winning time was marked as 57.9, compared to a 1:01.6 effort the first time.

Benson again finished second, while Linda Fox picked up the all-important fifth place for Amador. Had Fox not edged the last San Ramon swimmer, the meet would have ended in a tie.

Davidson also won the 100 fly for the Dons, while Cohan picked up two first places, taking the 200 individual medley in 2:20.3 and the 100 back in 1:07.7.

Fleischer garnered Amador's only other first place of the afternoon, nabbing the 50 freestyle in 25.4, just one-half of a second better than Heidi Burford's second place finish.

Sue Morton picked up a crucial second place in the 500 freestlye, while Nacy

Linda Horner and Diane Giddnes picked up a 1-2 finish in the 100 breast, the next to last event of the day. The Wolves, who trailed 64-63 before the event, took over the lead at that juncture.

In junior varsity action, The Wolves battered the Dons, 80-51. Jan Walter won the 50 free and 50 fly for the Dons, but San Ramon's Katie Evans won the 100 individual medley and 50 back, along with spearheading the winning San Ramon medley relay team.

Mites defeat Sac

Donovan Padgett killed a penalty in a big way over the weekend, scoring the game-winning goal while the Tri-Valley Mites AA team were short-handed in a 5-3 win over host Sacramento.

Padgett scored twice in the game, as did E.J. Rankin. Brian Schaeffer scored the other gaol while Jonathon Monson, Bryan Long, Danny Merrick, Frank Blancas and Schaeffer assisted for the Dublin-based team.

Bobby Long, in goal for the TV Mites, faced 20 Sacto shots.

The Squirts AA team was the only other Tri-Valley team to win over the weekend, beating visiting Marin, 3-2.

The first qvictory of the season was assred for the Squirts when Ian Tooze found the puck in a scramble in front of the Marin net and turned it into a goal. That was one of 39 Tri-Valley shots.

Keith Madieros and Kevin Madieros scored the other goals and Steve Horowitz and both Madieros' picked up assists.

Mike Lang faced nine shots in goal.

SunValley beat the Tri-Valley Juniors, 4-2, as Yarmough Kaksonen and John Halleck each had a goal and an assist. Doug Bivins was faced with a tougt task, facing 34 SV shots in absorbing the Juniors first loss of the season.

With his team mates taking only seven shots, goalie Hans Negd fell victim to 51 Santa Clara shots as the Squirt A's took a 14-0 pasting.

Shawn Picotte had a goal and an assist while Sonny Delk also scored but it wasn't enough for the PeeWee AA's, who fell to Santa Clara, 9-2. Phil Patrick, the TV goalie, had to put up with a barrage of 41 SC shots.

David Schmitt bore up as well as could be expected while Paul Redgrave, George Felton and Dave Howe stood out as the PeeWee A's lost to Stockton by the forgetable score of 17-0.

Tri-Valley made the most of 11 shots against Bantam AAA, but the Midget AA's got just two goals by Todd Pickering and R DeHart to lose, 5-2. Greg Hickey was assaulted by 48 shots-on-goal.

Tri-Valley's Midget A's got their season off to a dubious start, falling 11-0 to Hayward as goalie Dennis Hayes had to contend with 38 Hayward shots.

Terry Montanez scored off a Ken Stevens assist, but the BantamA's dropped a 5-1 decision to Stockton as the hosts pulverized the puck for 22 shots at goalie Steve Robello.

Playoffs even

McRae slugs KC to win

NEW YORK — Hal McRae ripped a double and a triple, triggering a sudden explosion of extra-base hits by Kansas City, and the Royals defeated the New York Yankees 7-4 Wednesday to tie the American League playoff at two victories apiece.

That sent the teams into a decisive fifth game Thursday night with the winner advancing to the World Series beginning Saturday in Cincinnati against the National League champion Reds.

The Royals managed only four extra-base hits in the first three games of the playoffs, but they exceeded that output by one Wednesday, routing Yankee ace Catfish Hunter and surviving two Graig Nettles home runs to gain the victory they had to have to keep their chances for the pennant alive.

Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, facing a must-win situation, shuffled his lineup in an effort to awaken the slumbering Royals bats.

McRae, usually the designated hitter, started in the outfield in place of Jim Wohlford and rookie Jamie Quirk inherited the DH role. Veteran Cookie Rojas, who had played in only 63 games during the regular season, got the start at second base, replacing Frank White.

The moves were drastic ones for the Royals, but their situation also was drastic. And when Kansas City was finished, each of Herzog's lineup switches had paid off handsomely.

Hunter, who had hurled a five-hitter in the opening game of this series, was a different pitcher Wednesday. The Royals solved him early, getting three runs in the second inning and knocking him out when they added two in the fourth.

John Mayberry opened the second inning by walking on four pitches. Hunter got the next two batters but Rojas kept the inning alive with a single to center.

Little Fred Patek, at 5-4 the shortest player in the majors, ripped Hunter's next pitch for a double to right-center field, scoring Mayberry and Rojas. Then Buck Martinez, the No. 9 batter, lined a 1-2 pitch to center field, scoring Patek with the third run of the inning.

The Yankees got two of those runs back in a hurry. Chris Chambliss opened the bottom of the second with a single, his record-tying eighth hit of the playoffs. Nettles then connected on a 1-1 pitch from Larry Gura, sending it into the upper deck in right field for a two-run homer.

When Thurman Munson opened the Yankees third with a single, New York's sixth hit, Herzog decided that Gura had gone far enough against his former teammates. Bird relieved and the Yankee bats went dead.

Eligibility of Gael questioned

A casual question from a reporter prevented East Bay Athletic League co-football leader Dublin High School from dropping to a 1-1 league mark and 1-4 overall Tuesday morning.

After the league's Board of Governors, meeting in Danville, had denied eligibility to Bruce Cummings, the Gaels 150-pound senior fullback, Tri-Valley Herald sports editor Tim Hunt asked what would happen to the Gaels' impressive record.

Referring to its rules, the league discovered that such a vote would deprive Dublin of wins over San Leandro, Acalanes and California and pulled a quick U-turn, returning Cummings to the eligible list.

However, the move probably did little more than shift responsibility to the North Coast Section, which will likely declare Cummings and another Dublin player, Tony Soares, ineligible at its own confab.

However, an NCS vote would not be retroactive thus the presence of the players, both of whom came to Dublin as inter-district transfers via the Regional Opportunity Program, won't deprive Dublin of those wins.

The league also voted down a proposal by Dublin principal Bob Hagler to boycott the current NCS AAA basketball play-offs till the section champion is allowed to participate in the prestigious Tournament of Champions.

Only Dublin and Amador Valley, where cage coach Skip Mohatt has long opposed the EBAL's absence from the TOC in recent years, voted in favor of the ploy. But, the Board did agreed to a resolution supporting a return to the spring tourney at the Oakland Coliseum.

In other actions the Board turned down eligibility requests by two other athletes making the California - Dublin transfer; denied baseball umpires a larger raise, granted JV soccer officials a raise and established new protest policies.

Wolf netters crush Foothill

Rick Reed and Pete Lamson took closely contested matches and Geoff Blake romped as the San Ramon High School tennis team took a wide-open 6-1 East Bay Athletic League win from Foothill Tuesday .

In another match not reported to the Times, California edged Dublin, 4-3, with the keys a three-set singles win by Breck Lutz and a doubles triumph by Bruce Morgan and Joe Skeen.

In the doubles match, Dublin's Jeff Heier and Ed LaPerle forced a tie-breaker in the second set, but couldn't prolong the match any longer.

In perhaps the most important match of the season, league-leading Monte Vista faces once - beaten Granada in Livermore at 3 p.m.

Raiders and 49ers Picked

RENO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers are eight - point favorites over the New Orleans Saints and the Oakland Raiders are three - point picks over the Denver Broncos Sunday in listings released Tuesday by Harrah's Reno-Tahoe Racebook.

Glad booters rated third

SAN MATEO — Last week's loss to Golden Gate Conference rival Foothill drops defending state champion Chabot into third in the Community College soccer ratings released today by the JC Sports Bureau.

The 1-0 loss to the Owls is the only blemish on the Gladiators record. Golden West, also once beaten and Foothill rank ahead of Chabot. One other GGC team, San Francisco, made the top ten, placing fifth.

Other Northern California teams were Skyline, sixth, Canada, eighth, and Alameda and West Valley, tied for 10th.

Glad striker Kenny Watts, from Livermore High School, scored two goals in Tuesday's win over winless Diablo Valley to up his total to 13 on the season, second in the state.

Golden West's Abel Dorado leads California with 20 goals. The Sun Kings are atop the Southern California Conference with a 2-0 league mark (13-1 overall) while Chabot is tied for first — in the loss column — and sports an 11-1 overall mark.

Recreation district enrolling players

The Livermore Area Recreation and Park District is currently enrolling players and teams for its men's over-30 Slowbreak Basketball League.

Games, with special rules controlling the pace of the game, will be played Thursday nights at the Camps Parks Gym in Pleasanton and at Junction Junior High School in Livermore.

Fees for the league season, which will run 14 weeks, are $80 per team.

Those interested in forming a team or being placed on a team may call 447-7300.

While Granada fell victim to an upset to allow Dublin sole possession of first place, four other East Bay Athletic League volleyball teams were also busy Tuesday.

California defeated Livermore, 16-14, 15-3, while once - unbeatable Monte Vista regained enough to struggle to an 11-15, 15-9, 15-12 win over cross-town rival San Ramon.

Tar/Taste Theory Exploded.

Taste-science breakthrough gives low tar MERIT the flavor of cigarettes having 60% more tar.

By locating certain flavor-rich ingredients in cigarette smoke, ingredients that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar, researchers at Philip Morris have disproven the theory that cigarette flavor depends on the amount of tar that goes with it.

They've discovered how to pack flavor—unprecedented flavor—into a cigarette that delivers one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.'™ It's extra flavor, natural flavor, and only MERIT has it.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1976

9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Tests Verify Taste

In taste tests involving thousands of cigarette smokers like yourself, MERIT was reported to deliver as much—or more—taste than current low tar leaders.

What's really startling is that these brands have up to 60% more tar than MERIT.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.

Now smoke the cigarette.

MERIT. Incredible smoking satisfaction at only 9 mg. tar.
